Particulars of the Attempted Burglary at the Dock Residence—Suspicion Aroused by Two Advertising Canvassers—Estate of George Kenneth Left to His Wife—Jack Frill May be Transferred to Boston Americans.

As told in The Bulletin Tuesday, through the presence of mind and heroic action of Mrs. Herman Dock, robbery was frustrated at the Dock residence, off the Watch Hill road, just before midnight, Monday. Mrs. Dock went to her room at 11:15. About 20 minutes after she heard someone moving about on the first floor and at once decided that there was an intruder in the house. She turned on the electric lights that illuminated all the lower part of the house and also the porch and grounds. She then secured an automatic revolver and looked out of the window in time to see a man jump from the porch and run towards the driveway that leads to the Watch Hill road. Mrs. Dock took deliberate aim and believed she wounded the intruder as he uttered a sharp cry just after the revolver was discharged.

Mr. Dock was out of town and perhaps that is a reason why the intruder is not in a hospital or undertaker's establishment, as he is more familiar with the working of an automatic revolver than is Mrs. Dock. The shot awakened the rest of the household, and brought John Travassette, the chauffeur, who was asleep in the garage, to the assistance of Mrs. Dock, who is far removed from the stalwart, daring woman, noted for athletic qualities such as would be placed in a courageous act of this kind. Mrs. Dock telephoned the facts to police headquarters and Chief of Police Brown and Police Officer Mitchell went in an automobile to the Dock residence and made an investigation. It was found that entrance was effected by cutting away a portion of the wire screen of a back door, and then turning the spring catch. The main door was not locked and therefore there was no difficulty in entering the house. A desk was rummaged and then another effort was made to force open another desk with a round instrument. It is evident that the burglar had begun to gather in the valuables and had made a fair start when his presence was discovered.

A coat of little Luther Dock was found on the floor with silver candlesticks and other articles of value placed thereon in preparation to be taken away. While the officers were in the house an automobile was heard to start up, a short distance beyond the entrance to the Dock place, and speed away in the direction of Watch Hill. This may have no connection with the attempted robbery, but it is positively known that the automobile had been at a standstill before the automobile with the officers arrived. Chief Brown visited the premises again on Tuesday, but so far as known to Mrs. Dock, nothing was taken from the residence. The connection of the automobile with the case gives color to the opinion that the visit to the Dock mansion was a side play of the thieves who were carrying on thievery operations in the cottages at Narragansett Pier and other shore resorts. Mr. Dock is in Washington, Frank Gallimore, the mechanical engineer in the employ of Mr. Dock, is in Boston, and the only occupants of the cottage at the time were Mrs. Dock, her two small children, and servants. The only man in the house was James, the colored butler, who is too old to be of active use in such an emergency.

Two men have been in Westernly canvassing for advertising, representing the Westernly.

Charles Arnold of Putnam is in Westernly on a visit to his sister, Mrs. John P. Edmund. He was a resident of Westernly in his younger days and is renewing acquaintances.

Upon complaint of Mrs. Ladora Keator, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph von Reyer of New York have been arrested for refusing to pay $11 for lodging at Mrs. Keator's at Watch Hill. They furnished a bond of $100 with Henry P. Walton as surety, for appearance in the Third district court Friday morning.

Congressman George H. Utter, Senator Louis W. Arnold, Representative Albert H. Langworthy and Joseph W. Murphy and Judge John A. Stetson, John J. Dunn and Samuel H. Davis were among the guests of Gen. Charles H. Wilson, chairman of the republican state central committee, at his summer home in Warwick Tuesday.

Jack Frill, who pitched in 21 winning games of 28 played by the Jersey City team, is at his home in Westernly. Frill belonged to the St. Louis Americans and was married to the Jersey City team and has now been sold to the Cincinnati Nationals and will report to that team in Boston Thursday. There is rumor that he is to be transferred to the Boston Americans.
